The Maine state inter-library system, Minerva (<http://minerva.maine.edu>) makes it possible to send an order for any book in any of the participating libraries and have it delivered to you through your local participating library.

With this in mind, the table below represents an update of an October 2013 search of the system, using the keyword "9/11." It contains 32 titles from the 217 main hits that I knew or assumed to be works raising questions about the official story or the way it was handled; I didn't look through an additional 581 "very relevant titles," the first 50 or so of which indicated a good hit was very unlikely. Two more were picked up by the keyword "911." I added two more I knew are related to 9/11. I've retained the order in which Minerva showed them, and a literal copy of any title can be used successfully in a Minerva search.

I've updated the list only by checking and correcting the existing entries. No new titles are included, except for the DVD Anatomy of a Great Deception, just added to the Southwest Harbor Public Library (SWHPL).

I have bolded the ones I have found most useful. In particular, retired theologian Dr. David Ray Griffin has shown a remarkable ability to pull together and document the work of scores of independent researchers.

T Type of medium: B: book, D: DVD, C: CD

L Number indicates how many libraries have copies of a given item; an asterisk indicates local availability at the SWHPL; a "3+" indicates there are more than 3 libraries holding copies
